

“No two days are the same.”

Chris Scannell

Then: Machinist Mate 2nd class US Navy

Now: Power Plant Technician Mirant

“I joined the Navy because I wanted to gain specialized training and a chance to explore the world. After six years working on the equipment side of a nuclear carrier, I had earned skills and knowledge that were a perfect fit for another job—one with a major energy company—Mirant.

“I was afraid I’d miss the excitement of Navy life, but guess what—at Mirant, every day brings something new. There are always different problems to solve and my crew trusts me to handle them. My career is ‘all ahead full.’

“If you’re leaving the military and have mechanical or control systems skills or experience in nuclear or steam power propulsion, you should talk to Mirant. For the inside story, you can even talk to me. Just call Mirant Recruiting at 678 579 5243 and ask for Chris Scannell.”
